

Question No.	Questions	Option 1	Option 2	Option 3	Option 4	Correct Answer
1	A group is about to begin a forest hike. The route has steep climbs, lasts 5 hours,	Only the name of the forest	Start and end times	Difficulty, gear needed, and time duration	List of animals in the forest	3
2	Before a high-altitude trek, why is health information like asthma history checked?	To assess risk for the guest	To calculate guide fees	To decide the route map	To suggest camera settings	1
3	Before starting a mountain trail, the guide gives details about terrain, slopes, and viewpoints. What is the guide doing?	Managing the group size	Briefing about the location and landscape	Giving first-aid training	Counting guest names	2
4	During the morning activity, the guide mentions chances of seeing elephants	Passing on animal movement and duration	Changing the group leader	Informing about weather changes	Cancelling the walk	1
5	Sharing accurate and updated information during the activity helps in:	Ending the activity faster	Reducing communication	Keeping guests engaged	Hiding route details	3
6	The process of giving a summary after finishing a section of the trail is called _____.	pre-check	debriefing	forecasting	route-marking	2
7	After a debrief on a forest section, the guide informs the group about the next route and what to expect. This reflects:	End of shift	Start of break time	Ticket checking	Schedule update for next section	4
8	Which of these is directly related to ensuring safety during a field activity?	Carrying binoculars	Taking group photos	Staying with the group	Offering refreshments	3
9	Which item can help guests learn about animals during the tour?	Walking stick	Field guide	Water bottle	Entry pass	2
10	Guests having difficulty identifying a bird can be supported by:	Asking them to skip the sighting	Offering binoculars only	Using a reference material	Asking them to take photos only	3
11	During a walk, a tourist is bitten by a scorpion and shows signs of pain. What should be the immediate response?	Take group photo	Call for tea	Start emergency aid and follow SOPs	Cancel the trip	3
12	Before starting a wildlife safari, the vehicle must have:	Spare tyre, tool box, and tow rope	Tow rope, music system, and snacks	Tool box, extra seats, and GPS	Map, tickets, and radio	1
13	What should be done before starting an activity to ensure tourist safety?	Take guest photos	Plan a meal menu	Perform basic risk assessment	Count field guides	3
14	An image shows a person checking a mobile weather app showing rain warnings before a trek. What is the action about 	Route marking	Forecast review before activity	Calling the driver	Downloading a local map	2
15	A guest collapses due to breathing difficulty. What action should follow?	Serve water	Ask them to rest under a tree	Administer CPR if trained	Look for binoculars	3